A REMINDER.

To Debilitated Persons,
To Dyspeptics,
To Sufferers from Liver Complaint,
To those having no Appetite,
To those with Broken Down Constitutions,
To Nervous People,
To Children Wasting Away,
To any with Debilitated Digestive Organs,

such as
Constipation, Inward Piles, Fullness or Blood to the Head, Acidity of the Stomach, Nausea, Heartburn, Disgust for Food, Fullness, or Weight in the Stomach, Sour Eructations, Sinking or Fluttering at the pit of the Stomach, Swimming of the Head, Hurried and Difficult Breathing, Fluttering at the heart, Choking or Suffocating Sensations when in a lying Posture, Dimness of Vision, Dots or Webs before the Sight, Fever and Dull Pains in the Head, Deficiency of Perspiration, Yellowness of the Skin and Eyes, Pain in the Side, Back, Chest, Limbs, &c; Sudden Flushes of Heat, Burning in the Flesh, Constant Imaginings of Evil, & Great Depression of Spirits.

HOOFLAND'S GERMAN BITTERS.

A Bitters without Alcohol or Spirits of any kind.

Is different from all others. It is composed of the pure Juices, or Vital Principle of Roots, Herbs and Barks, (or as medicinally termed Extracts,) the worthless or inert portions of the ingredients not being used. Therefore, in one Bottle of these Bitters there is contained as much medicinal virtue as will be found in several gallons of ordinary mixtures. The Roots, &c., used in this Bitters, are grown in Germany, their vital principles extracted in that country by a scientific Chemist, and forwarded to the manufactory in this city, where they are compounded and bottled. Containing no spirituous ingredients, this Bitters is free from the objections urged against all others; no desire for stimulants can be induced from their use, they cannot make drunkards, and cannot under any circumstances, have any but a beneficial effect.

HOOFLAND'S GERMAN TONIC,

Was compounded for those not inclined to extreme bitters, and is intended for use in cases when some alcoholic stimulant is required in connection with the Tonic properties of the Bitters. Each bottle of the Tonic contains one bottle of the Bitters, combined with pure SANTA CRUZ RUM, and flavored in such a manner that the extreme bitterness of the Bitters is overcome, forming a preparation highly agreeable and pleasant to the palate and containing the medicinal virtue of the Bitters. The price of the Tonic is $1.50 per Bottle, which many persons think too high. They just take into consideration that the alcoholic part is guaranteed to be of a pure quality. A poor article could be furnished at a cheaper price, but is it not better to pay a little more and have a good article? A medicinal preparation should contain none but the best ingredients; and they who expect to obtain a cheap compound, and be benefitted by it will most certainly be cheated.

HOOFLAND'S

German Bitters,

OR

HOOFLAND'S

WITH

PODOPHYLLIN PILL.

WILL CURE YOU.

They are the Greatest

BLOOD PURIFIERS

Known to the Medical world, and will eradicate diseases arising from impure blood, Debility of the Digestive Organs, or Diseased Liver, in a shorter time than any other known remedies.

SPEAK FOR THESE REMEDIES.

Who would ask for more Dignified or Stronger Testimony?

PHILADELPHIA, March 16, 1867.

I find "Hoofland's German Bitters" is a good tonic, useful in diseases of the digestive organs, and of great benefit in cases of debility and want of nervous action in the system. Yours truly,

GEORGE W. WOODWARD.

PHILADELPHIA, April 28, 1867.

I consider Hoofland's German Bitters" a valuable medicine in case of attacks of Indigestion or Dyspepsia. I can certify this from my experience of it. Yours with respect,

JAMES THOMPSON.

PHILADELPHIA, June 1, 1868.

GEORGE SHARSWOOD.

I have used "Hoofland's German Bitters and Tonic" in my family during the past year, and can recommend them as an excellent tonic, imparting tone and vigor to the system. Their use has been productive of decidedly beneficial effects.

WM. F. ROGERS.

Hon. JAS. M. WOOD, Ex-Mayor of Williamsport, Pennsylvania:

I take great pleasure in recommending "Hoofland's German Bitters" to any one who may be afflicted with Dyspepsia. I had the Dyspepsia so badly it was impossible to keep any food on my stomach, and I became so weak as not to be able to walk half a mile. Two bottles of Tonic effected a perfect cure. JAMES M. WOOD.

REMEMBER

THAT

AND

Will cure every Case of

DEBILITY,

Or Wasting away of the Body.

HOOFLAND'S GERMAN REMEDIES

Are the medicines you require to purify the Blood, excite the torpid Liver to healthy action, and to enable you to pass safely through any hardships or exposure.

DR. HOOFLAND'S

Or Substitute for Mercury Pills.

TWO PILLS A DOSE.

The Most Powerful, yet Innocent, Vegetable Cathartic known.

It is not necessary to take a handful of these pills to produce the desired effect; two of them act quickly and powerfully upon the Liver, Stomach and Bowels of all impurities. The principal ingredient is Podophyllin, or the Alcoholic Extract of Mandrake, which is by many times more powerful and searching than the Mandrake itself. Its peculiar action is upon the Liver, cleansing it speedily from all obstructions, with all the power of Mercury, whose ailments have caused results attached to the use of that mineral.

For all diseases, in which the use of a cathartic is required, these pills will prove entire satisfaction in every case. They NEVER FAIL.

In cases of Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia and extreme costiveness, Dr. Hoofland's German Bitters or Tonic should be used in connection with the Pills. The Beaver Argus

J. WEYAND, Editor and Proprietor.

Beaver, Pa., March 1st, 1871.

THE Republican State Committee met at Philadelphia on the 24th and unanimously resolved to hold the State nominating convention at Harrisburg on the seventeenth of May, instead of on the 10th of March, as heretofore agreed upon.

SINCE the recent political disturbances in Italy, it is said that arrangements have been set on foot for the transfer of the seat of the Papal Power, from Rome to Belgium. As the Pope himself is favorable to this project, there is every prospect of its ultimate success.

THE country generally, will be no little gratified to hear that the Secretary of the Treasury has directed the Assistant Treasurer at New York to purchase two millions of bonds each Wednesday during the month of March, being ten millions in all, and sell one million in gold on the first, third and fifth Thursdays, and two millions on the second and fourth Thursdays of March, seven millions in all.

THE petitions for the prohibition of the sale of intoxicating liquors which have gone into the Legislature this winter are overwhelming and unprecedented in number and strength of signatures. The local-option bill is urged by at least a hundred thousand politioners, whose memorials are now on file in both houses. No measure was ever more strongly supported by the will of the people, expressed directly and emphatically to their servants at Harrisburg.

THE editor of the Cleveland Leader has been the receipient of marked attention from a female fortune-teller of that place. He published something about her manner of doing business, when she called at his office and asked him to retract, but it not being his day for retracting, he refused, when she drew a cowhide and went for him. The reserve forces in the office rushed to the rescue of the editor, and the woman was ignominiously ejected from the premises. Nothing had created such an excitement in that office since the time they received pay in advance, about three years ago, for a copy of the paper.

THE Californians were no little alarmed on the night of the 20th of February. Hitherto the inhabitants of that State have never experienced any violent electrical commotions, in fact, faint flashes of lightning and slight rumblings of thunder hardly recognizable, have been their nearest approaches to thunder storms. On the night referred to, however, a terrible storm passed over a portion of the State, accompanied with lightning and thunder as vivid and loud as seen and heard in the Western States. More consternation among the citizens of San Francisco would not have been caused by earthquake after earthquake. The storm began at about midnight and lasted for upwards of an hour, after which the elements and the people all became quiet again.

WHAT is the Legislature more frequently asked than intelligently answered. That body has been in session now seven weeks and really none of the important business of the session has yet been touched. Indeed, this business is not even prepared for the action of the respective Houses. There is no apportionment bill, there is no Constitutional reform bill yet in shape, the revised civil code, a volume of 317 pages, making great changes in our civil statutes, lies upon members' desks still awaiting even the most initial action; and the political diversity of the two Houses only renders a final disposition of these and other questions of public moment and governmental necessity the more distant.

THE "Fenian Exiles"—thirteen in number who have been "cavorting around" in New York city for the past few weeks, pulled up in Washington on last Wednesday and immediately made their way to the Executive mansion. After a few commonplace remarks with the President they assured him that their treatment in English prisons had been outrageous, told terribly on their health, and they were anxious to present a written statement of their grievances to the Government. To this the President replied that they could do so if they thought proper, and assured them that the United States would take such action in the matter as would be just between her own citizens and a neighboring nation. It is surmised that the "exiles" did not overwhelm General Grant with their "flood of sorrow." We wonder if they had not better turn their attention now to the construction of Railroads &c.

WHEN a man once gets into trouble it seems that every "scallawag" in the country feels himself at liberty to give him a kick. Here is C. C. Bowen, a member of Congress from one of the South Carolina districts, who has recently passed through a trial at Washington, D. C., on a charge of bigamy preferred against him by a woman whose present residence is in Florida. The jury in the case failed to agree and were discharged by the court. A new trial will take place, probably in March.—But now comes a fellow named Eli G. Grimes an ex-confederate soldier who states that he (Grimes) murdered a rebel Colonel White, in 1864, and that Bowen, who was himself a Capt. in White's regiment, got him to do the deed. It looks very much to us as if Grimes was hired by Bowen's enemies to get this job up on him. If so, it will cause us but little regret to announce his own execution, after trial, for White's murder.

TROUBLES of a very grave character have been anticipated for some days past at Little Rock, Arkansas, between Governor Clayton and his friends, and Lieut. Gov. Johnson and his adherents. Both of these gentlemen desire to fill the gubernatorial chair. Governor Clayton's term has not yet expired, but a short time ago he was elected to the U. S. Senate by the Legislature which is now in session. As soon therefore, as he would resign his position as Governor, Johnson, by virtue of the State Constitution, would succeed to the office. Since Clayton's election to the Senate, however, a bitter quarrel has sprung up between these gentlemen, and it is presumed that as Governor of the State, Johnson would make war upon Clayton's friends and turn them all out of office. Under these circumstances Clayton refuses to resign, and Johnson and his friends threaten to take forcible possession of the Executive Chamber. Appeals to the President of the United States have been made in behalf of both parties for assistance, but that officer wisely abstains from taking any part in the imbroglio. He has however ordered the following order to be sent to the commanders of United States troops in that locality:

WASHINGTON, D.C., February 19, 1871.—To Commanding Officers: If being reported that there are indications of a riot at Little Rock, the President directs you to keep your troops in hand to suppress and quiet the factions, should a disturbance arise. The troops will not be used to aid either party in this contest between the governor and lieutenant-governor of the state, but only to preserve order. Acknowledge receipt immediately, and report your actions.

[Signed] E. D. TOWNSEND, Adjutant Gen'l.

THE citizens of Washington, D.C., were seized with a fit of liberality a few months ago, and resolved to lay down a wooden pavement on Pennsylvania avenue. They carried their resolution out, and immediately afterwards began to make preparations for a "carnival" in honor of the great event. This performance took place last week, and judging from the telegraphic reports the whole thing was little else than "tom-foolery" from begining to end. Horse races were run along the streets, goat races were of hourly occurrence, men and women in masks 'processed' all through the city, and almost every public room had its masquerade ball. Not satisfied with even this the masqueraders had a wagon rigged up and a masked person in it to represent Mrs. Victoria Woodhull, who was, in this derisive way announced as a candidate for President in 1872.

When people set themselves to play the fool they generally succeed, and it is well when they have sense enough to know when to stop. The managers of the "carnival" at Washington evidently failed in the latter, when they tried thus to caricature Mrs. Woodhull. However much we may differ with her upon the question of Women's Suffrage and her peculiar way of advocating it yet all recognize her as a gifted woman, and entitled to respectful treatment. That female Suffrage will become the law of the land, is doubtless a fore gone conclusion—and is only a question of time. We doubt its expediency, but men of acknowledged wisdom and ability, advocate it, and it is rapidly gaining ground among thoughtful and intelligent people. This being true it is labor lost to try to laugh the question down, and when persons seek to bring its foremost champion into ridicule, as was done in the case here referred to, they not only show their lack of good breeding but confess their inability to meet the arguments in its favor.

THE war between Germany and France, has been brought to a close and peace once more exists between the two countries. A treaty to this end was signed on the 24th by Bismarck, representing Germany, and by Theirs representing France. By its terms France is to pay Germany three hundred and twenty million thalers, and to yield Alsace and Lorraine, including the cities of Metz and Nancy. It also stipulates that the German army shall enter and pass through Paris. This news will be hailed with pleasure throughout the whole civilized world.

A VERY foolish story has been put in circulation by General Butler's enemies to the effect that his parlors in Washington were hung with mirrors belonging to the United States Government. The facts in relation to these mirrors seem to be that sometime ago the General wished to purchase some mirrors and wrote to a New York dealer upon the subject, and was referred by him to an agent in Washington. The agent informed Gen Butler that he had several large mirrors which he had brought to Washington in the expectation of selling them to the Government for the President's house, but failing in that, he was then endeavoring to sell them to the Treasury Department; that they were stored in the Treasury building, and if Gen. Butler wished to use them in his house until they were sold he was welcome to do so, provided he would pay the cost of removing them, and assume the responsibility of returning them uninjured. Gen. Butler accepted the offer, the mirrors were taken to his house and subsequently returned to the agent, who afterward sold them to the Government. The agent was glad to make the arrangement, because he thought the property safer in Gen. Butler's hands than when lying in the halls of the Treasury Department.

IN a libel suit against a newspaper tried in California recently, the Judge, who is said to be one of the best and ablest in the State, ruled in substance, that as an editorial article appeared in the same paper after the one of which complaint was made, apologizing for the first, and averring a lack of all malice, the allegations might be considered as proof of the character and intent of the first. Under this ruling the jury found a verdict for the defendant. This is eminently fair. As a co-temporary explains: "If the proprietor of a newspaper admits an article to his columns for which any citizen feels so much aggrieved as to found a libel suit thereon, the publisher has a right to show, in an explanatory article, that he published the article without malice or intent to injure the complaining party. The explanatory article must be considered in connection with the original one, as showing animus of the publisher. This is a just and enlightened ruling. Passing by this case, it may be safely affirmed that nine out of every ten libel suits brought against publishers are prompted by malice and not by any desire to obtain justice."

—A bill appropriating $20,000 of the State funds to the relief of those who were rendered destitute by the Mifflintown fire passed the House last week and was signed by the Governor. The bill originated in the Senate and was passed by that body several weeks ago. We think this was about right, although it is questionable whether there is authority existing anywhere, for the Legislature to make appropriations for such purposes, however commendable or deserving the subject of the charity may be.

HERE AND THERE.

—A genial rector of a village parish in Minnesota found it difficult to get his salary promptly. Latterly it was much behind. Going to one of his delinquent parishioners in the hardware trade, he looked over all his stock of corkscrews very fastidiously, seeking a large one of peculiar strength and size. To the inquiry, "What do you want of such a thing anyhow?" the answer came: "My dear sir, I want a corkscraw that can draw my salary!"

—Col. Thomas E. Chickering, of the firm of Chickering Bros., piano manufacturers, died suddenly in Boston, of apoplexy, on the 14th. It is stated that he has $80,000 insurance on his life, in the following companies: Equitable, $10,000; State Mutual, $5,000; Mutual Benefit, $20,000; Anchor, N. Y., $5,000; Mutual N. Y., $20,000; Globe Mutual, $20,000.

—A former Kentucky Congressman went out riding with his sweetheart, and, in his own words: "We were nearing a small skirt of woods the horses at their best speed. I had determined in my own mind that when we reached a particular spot I would 'pop' the question, and so I said no. Just as the word escaped her lips I purposely ran the sleigh over a stump. Out we went she to cool her person in the snow, and I to counteract the damage she had given to my affections. Her first words after getting back into the sleigh were: 'Excuse me, sir, I wished to tell you to notice the stump.' We often refer to the sleigh-ride, but to this day she believes it was an accident. We live near the Indiana line—a divorce is not wanted."

—In Denver, Iowa, one day last week a man tried to have himself sent by express to Newtown Corners, Mass., by securing himself in a box expressly manufactured by him for that purpose. The box was five feet long, three feet high, and furnished with provision and all necessary articles pertaining to a bed chamber. The express company refused to receive the box, which was valued at $300, on account of its insecurity. The box was left standing on end with the man in it at the express office for two hours. The man standing on his head all the time as was afterward discovered. As the box was being removed the man stirred while endeavoring to remain perpendicular, which led to his detection. The box was directed to himself and was so artfully arranged that he could have escaped at pleasure before reaching his destination. He is now confined in the county jail. His name is G. C. Cross. As he carried a revolver some surmise that he intended to rob the express company.

—A Mr. Ingham and his son of Jersey City were arrested by detective Carral last week accused of atrociously assaulting Frederick S. Grammar. When the accused persons were arraigned before Justice Chambers it transpired that Grammar had wooed and won a fair young daughter of Mr. Ingham against the will of the latter. About a week since they were clandestinely married but the young bride returned to her father's house and observed the utmost secrecy as to the affair until last Saturday, when she was induced by Grammar to reveal her marriage to her parents, after which she repaired to her new home. During Saturday night her father and brother went, as alleged, to Grammar's house, forced the door of his chamber, and atrociously assaulted him, at the same time threatening to make his wife a widow. The castigated bridegroom grew so scared that he fled, while his wife was borne away by her father and brother. The Inghams gave bail in $1,000 each.

—Yesterday's Cincinnati Gazette observes: "If we have a bridge that will stop large boats here, Paducah will have one that will stop them there. Steamboating will by this be cut down to the smallest craft, with a suspension of even these forms much as a month every year during high water. And the building of large steamboats at Cincinnati will be finally extinct. And this is only the beginning of bridging the Ohio. Probably half a dozen bridges will span the river below this city in the next twenty years. The fixing of the conditions of the Cincinnatti bridge is the fixing of the conditions for all these. If we initiate this piracy it will be turned to our destruction."

—The perils of Southern journalism are illustrated in the chronology of the Vicksburg, Miss., Sentinel before the war. This is the way the casualties ran: Dr. Hagan took charge in 1837, fought a duel with the Whig, participated in a number of free fights, and was finally killed in 1849 in a street fight. His assistant, Isaac Partridge, died with yellow fever in 1849. Dr. J. S. Hall, associated with Mr. Partridge, was a noted duellist, and had a number of "affairs," in one of which he was severely wounded. The next unlucky editor was James Ryan, who, in vindicating his honor, was killed by R. E. Hamit of the Whig. Next in order came Walter Kickey, who indulged in several street rows, and was repeatedly wounded. He killed Dr. Kacklin, and was soon after killed himself in the Lone Star State. The next editor was John Lavins, who it seems, declined glory on the field of honor, and consequently is not entitled to a place in the niche of fame. He indulged however, in the usual amount of indiscreet abuse, and atoned for his folly by serving a term in prison. Mr. Jenkins, his successor, in aspiring to immortality, came to an untimely end in a street fight with H. A. Crabb; Mr. Crabb was assassinated in the same manner in Sonora. F. C. Jones succeeded Jenkins, but not finding the editorial chair an easy one, he did the most sensible thing he could, and drowned his sorrow and his body at the same time in the Father of Waters. William Roy subsequently assumed editorial charge of the Sentinel, and soon afterwards he celebrated the event with a street fight. The exercise was repeated at intervals, until finally he was assassinated in a street row by his book keeper.

—Scientific observations with the barometer and the thermometer at the summits of isolated mountains, such as Etna and Teneriffe, are suggested as of much probable value in adding to a knowledge of the great atmospheric currents of the Globe, and to furnish other important information in meteorology.

Forty-First Congress.

SECOND SESSION.

SENATE, Feb. 18.—The House bill relative to the construction of a bridge across the Mississippi River passed. The joint resolution to prevent obstructions to the navigation of the Ohio River prohibiting further work on the Cincinnati and Newport Bridge, unless it shall be so constructed as to give one hundred feet in the clear beneath the lower cross beams of the bridge and low-water mark, was taken up and the amendment of Mr. Sherman agreed to; but the morning hour having expired, the bill went over. The balance of the day was spent in the consideration of the Appropriation bill.

HOUSE.—The Conference Committee on the Diplomatic Appropriation bill make a report which was agreed to. The House went into Committee of the whole on the Army appropriation bill, which was discussed at great length, when the Committee rose and reported the bill to the House with a clause authorizing an appropriation of 100,000 for running the boundary line between the United States from the Lake of the Woods to the Rocky Mountains. The Judiciary Committee report against the McGarrahan claim, a minority report in favor of it, and a discussion ensued. The previous question was called, but before it was taken the House adjourned.

SENATE, Feb. 20.—The House bill to guard elections by the U. S. troops, when necessary, was reported favorably. The Legislative appropriation bill was then considered at great length when several amendments were agreed to and a final vote will be had on Tuesday.

HOUSE.—After the presentation of resolutions from several State Legislatures, the bill authorizing the President to appoint a joint commission to establish the north-western boundary was taken up, and after some debate, was passed. After a lengthy discussion, the minority report on the McGarrahan claim was agreed to. It directs an examination of the records of the Patent to the Panoche grant to be transcribed into the records as the same stood on the record book in the general land office at the time it was examined without any mutilation or erasure whatever; so that the legal effect of the record so transcribed, shall be the same as if the original record had never been interfered with or mutilated; and it authorizes and requires the President of the United States to do in the premises whatever may in his judgment be just and equitable between the parties, without regard to any action or proceeding subsequent to the 14th of March 1863, the date of the recorded patent. Very rich quick-silver mines are involved in the settlement of this claim; and it has been hotly contested for several years; and warm words passed among Senators in debate on the merits of the bill. Adjourned.

SENATE, Feb. 21.—A resolution lately introduced, looking to the acquisition of the British North American possessions on the west of Hudson's Bay—though the high Commission—was referred to the Committee on Foreign Relations. The Senate bill authorizing the U. S. Circuit Court for Indiana to make partition to increase the salaries of the Postmaster General, and Commissioner of Customs and Pensions, to $4,000 was passed. Pittsburgh has been designated as a port, in which goods in bond may be transported under the law of last session. Adjourned.

HOUSE.—Some time was consumed in the consideration of the matouth South Pacific Railroad bill of the Senate, which after being amended, was passed. The contested election case of Shields vs Vanhorn was decided in favor of the latter—the sitting member; and that Shields be paid $5,000 for his expenses. Adjourned.

SENATE, Feb. 22.—The credentials of Mr. Morrill, Senator elect from Maine, for the term beginning March next, were presented. The centennial celebration bill was considered during the morning hour, but without definite action. The Indian appropriation bill was under advisement during the remainder of the day. The Amendment striking out the section prohibiting contracts or agreements by any person with Indians for payment for services in collecting claims against the Government for Indian lands, annuities or treaties, or declaring such agreements null and void, was rejected. The section was then modified to permit the hiring of attorneys by Indians, subject to the approval of the Commissioner of Indian Affairs and Secretary of the Interior, and prohibiting their recovering a greater amount of pay than might be approved by the Secretary of the Interior. The bill was reported to the Senate, when additional amendments were proposed and discussed. One, to increase the compensation of Indian agents three hundred dollars annually, gave rise to a discussion upon the personal integrity of those officers and differences as to the proper policy to be pursued in the management of the Indian Bureau. The amendment was rejected. The Committee on Indian Affairs, reported various amendments, making additional appropriations for the Indian service, a number of which were adopted, and at 4:30 the Senate took recess till evening. At the evening session there was but a meagre attendance, and no business of importance was transacted.

HOUSE.—The deficiency bill was considered at great length; and during debate on items incorporated in it, quite a personal war of words occurred between Mr. Farnsworth and Mr. Butler, the former charging the latter with having his house furnished with Mirrors belonging to the United States. A motion was made to strike out the appropriation to the Freedmen's Hospital. It was alleged that this Democratic hatred of the poor, oppressed and down-trodden people of the land. To this it was replied that the Freedmen's Bureau had been a faithful source of public plunder—had been and was "rotten from top to toe," and "had been used in connection with the army to prostitute the ballot-box." The bill passed and the House adjourned.

SENATE, Feb. 23.—The Finance Committee, reported back the House bill to extend the provisions of the 55th section of the Banking act of June 1864, punishing embezzlement by bank officers to banks organized under the provisions of the Banking act of February, 1863. Passed.

The Senate resumed the consideration of the Philadelphia centennial celebration bill, which was discussed without action until after the expiration of the morning hour, not withstanding repeated efforts of the Pennsylvania Senators Scott and Cameron to secure a vote.

Mr. Cameron gave notice of his intention to move to take up the bill in the morning hour to-morrow, and to press its consideration until it was disposed of.

The Senate bill to amend the bounty laws passed. It is as follows:

That all soldiers who were mustered into the service of the United States for three years between May 4th and July 22d, 1861, and who were honorably discharged before serving two years by reason of disabilities contracted in the service, are entitled to receive $100 bounty. At 6:30 p. m. the Senate found itself without a quorum; and the Sergeant-at-arms ordered to invite absentees to come in and resume business. At 8:30, a quorum having been obtained, the Indian appropriation bill was amended and passed. The Senate then took up the bill "to guard the purity of elections," that is, to guard the polls with U. S. troops; and a good deal of filibustering was had on the part of the Democrats. The bill was read; but before final action the Senate adjourned.

HOUSE.—The House passed the bill relative to taking depositions de bene esse in Courts of the United States; also the bill for the extension of time for the completion of the Portage and Lake Superior Railroad; also the Senate resolution prescribing the oath to be taken by senator elect Miller, of Georgia.

The House proceeded to the consideration of the bill making appropriations for the construction, preservation and repairs of certain fortifications and other works for defence. After some discussion and objections the bill passed nearly in the same shape as originally reported. Adjourned.

SENATE, Feb. 24.—Reports were made favorable to Pacific Railroads. The House bill "to guard the purity of elections" came up in order, and was opposed at great length by Democratic Senators, who said it was a bill to control elections at the point of the bayonet. At 1:30 a. m., the bill passed by a party vote. Mr. Vickers moved to amend the title so as to read "An act to prevent the free and intelligent voters of the United States, from exercising the right of suffrage," Lost, and at nearly two o'clock in the morning, the Senate adjourned.

HOUSE.—The House spent the entire hour on the omnibus appropriation bill. It appropriates $33,588,995. After having disposed of twenty pages of the bill the House adjourned.

WASHINGTON CORRESPONDENCE.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 23d, 1871.

CARNIVAL.

Really Mr. Editor, the "great Carnival," for the past two days, has taken much of the writing proclivities out of me. To attempt to give you a full and satisfactory report of it in the limited dimensions of a Washington letter, would be ridiculous, and therefore, please accept (which is considered by the good natured folks here as a good substitute) "the great Carnival Republican," a comical sheet gotten up for the occasion by the proprietor of the National Republican of this city.

CONGRESS.

The past week was one of more than ordinary interest, doubtless, more on account of the variety than the importance of the events which transpired, some of the events could hardly be called varieties were it not that they help make up a chapter of incidents, such for example as the moral condition of Frank Blair and Willard Salisbury in the Senate. If Frank Blair was brought under the provisions of the bill relating to "vessels propelled in whole or in part by steam," and compelled to carry steam and water indicators, they would have indicated a very low state of water and corresponding high state of steam in his boiler during the past week. Salisbury, however, would never come under condemnation on this account, for he always blows off (makes a speech) when he gets "steam" up beyond a certain mark.

On Saturday, Blair, in a half drunken condition, wandered over to the House with a cigar in his mouth, and made up quite an appropriate tableaux by holding the Hon. John Morrisey of New York, in conversation there for some time, Morissey from his actions I should judge, feeling a little ashamed of his company. It was truly a very striking and spirited scene.

THE ARMY APPROPRIATION BILL.

Messrs. Brooks of New York, and Voorhies of Indiana, chose, a day or two since, to vote against the Army Appropriation Bill, giving as a reason that the Army had been used to control elections. These gentlemen must have felt at home uttering their old war cry "Not another man or dollar to carry on this unholy War." They forgot however, to state that the troops have never been sent to the polls, except to prevent riot and bloodshed, in execution of laws of Congress, passed under and in support of the Constitution of the United States. This opposition coming from Democrats, representing the city of New York, and the State of Indiana, was peculiarly appropriate, being always notorious for election frauds by the Democracy. It is quite natural that the Democratic members from those sections should dread the application of any force adequate to enforce the laws made to correct the monstrous frauds perpetrated by their political friends, and for which they are responsible. The result of the investigations of the Senate Committee on affairs in the South will show that there has been, and still is much more occasion for the use of troops to defend Union men in expressing their sentiments at the polls, than has generally been known. In fact public sentiment is greatly in error in some parts of the country on this subject.

If this or any Congress shall succeed in compelling the Democracy to conduct elections fairly, without fraud or intimidation, it will deserve the gratitude of the American people, and the plaudits of the lovers of republican institutions throughout the world; for whatever tends to trammel or prevent the free expression of the people at the polls, or corrupt the ballot box, is like a cancer which will speedily sap the vital force of our form of government, and turn order into confusion; rule into misrule, and government into anarchy. To a great extent this dire result has already been accomplished in the city of New York by the Democratic practices of repeating and bullying, and is sought to be spread by that party over the country. Corrected this must be, whether by civil or military force, and the Republican party being in the ascendancy, will be held accountable for this correction.

Ingrowing Toe Nails.

A correspondent of the Scientific American gives the following as a remedy for ingrowing toe nails: The trouble and pain from this cause can be immediately and permanently relieved, without pain, in the following simple manner: Take a file some four inches in length, bastard cut, flat on one side and round on the other, new and sharp. File down thin all the exposed part of the nail, till it is soft and pliable. This will immediately relieve the part pressing into the flesh, which need not be cut or extracted. The filing is not in the least painful, as the file will not take hold of the skin or flesh. In the course of several months, the nail will grow out thick again, when the filing should be repeated. The edges of the nail will never grow into the flesh so long as the top of the nail is soft and pliable; and there is nothing so simple, convenient, safe and painless for keeping it so as a file.

—Professor B. A Gould, the astronomer, who has gone to Cordova, South America, to found a great astronomical observatory for the Government of the Argentine Republic, writes to Silliman's Journal from that place, describing his journey, and giving an account of the scene of his future work. While crossing the tropics, on the steamer from England to Buenos Ayres, he was so much impressed by what he terms "the luminosity of the backgrounds of the heavens." The light which it affords, he describes as not inferior to that of the sky when the moon is at her quarter, so that it reduces the apparent brilliancy of the stars, and often renders it difficult to recognize the outlines of prominent constellations. He hints that this may have some connection with the zodiacal light, and says that he has long regarded it as demonstrated that the latter is an appendage of the earth, and not of the sun.

—Blind bats, when allowed to fly about in a room, are able, notwithstanding their deprivation of sight, to avoid threads stretched across it. This fact was observed and recorded by Spallanzani, an Italian naturalist, in the last century. He attributed it, according to one statement, to a highly developed sense of touch possessed by the wing; but it has also been said that he suspected the existence of a sixth sense, by which bats are guided in their flight, altho' deprived of eyes. A doctor at Fraguo has recently been investigating the subject, and has ascertained that the wings of a bat are covered with extremely fine and sparsely scattered hairs, both wings together containing from eight to ten thousand of them. These are connected with that portion of the bat's nerve system which possesses the highly exalted sense of touch. The bats on which he experimented did not lose their eyes; the less painful expedient of covering them with sticking plaster was adopted.

A BEWILDERED BACHELOR.

Strange Case of Mistaken Identity—A poor Man Arrested for Wife Desertion Who Had Never Been Married.

The Tombs Police Court yesterday says the New York World of Sunday, was the scene of a laughable case, in which a woman had a man arrested as her husband for abandonment, who in reality was not her husband at all.

Jane Goldschmidt aged twenty-eight, a native of Poland, arrived in this city on February 13, by the steamer Pennsylvania, with her child a girl six years old, and hired rooms at 10 Bayard street. Her object in coming to this country was to discover her husband, who had deserted her in England and fled to this country.

A VICTIM FOUND.

On Thursday last the Commissioners of Emigration applied to Justice Dowling for a warrant for the arrest of Louis Goldstein, aged twenty-six, a native of Austria, residing at 112 Forsyth street, who, it was claimed was Louis Goldschmidt and the husband of the deserted woman. Goldstein was arrested, and the case came up for examination before Justice Dowling yesterday.

Mrs. Goldschmidt swore that her maiden name was Jane De Peelsky; that eight years ago she was married to Louis Goldschmidt, in England, according to the rites of the Jewish Church; that the prisoner was positively Louis Goldschmidt, not Goldstein, and the man she married; that she knew him in England two years before her marriage, and that his mother had four children.

Bernard Unterberg, of 44 Baxter street, swore that he know both the prisoner and complainant; that the prisoner's name was Goldschmidt; and that he (the witness), was present at the marriage of the prisoner to the complainant in England eight years ago; and he positively identified the prisoner as being the bridegroom on that occasion. There were from fifty to sixty persons present at the English marriage, but the witness was the only one now in New York to the best of his knowledge.

AN EFFECTIVE ALIBI.

The prisoner, Wilhelm Goldstein, was then examined and sworn that he never was in England in his life; that he had six brothers, Julius, Anthony, Samuel, Adolphe, Jacob, and Herman; and that he never was married in his life. He produced his passport from the Austrian government given him in the name of Wilhelm Goldstein, seven years ago, on his immigration to this country.

At this point Mrs. Goldschmidt became very much excited, and placing her little girl before the prisoner asked him in the Polish language if that were not his child. The prisoner positively denied the impeachment.

A COUNTERFEIT RESEMBLANCE.

The counsel of Mrs. Goldschmidt then produced a photograph and asked the prisoner if he had seen it before. He said, yes, a few days ago, but denied it was a picture of himself. The picture was then passed around to those in court, and it was evident it was not a picture of the prisoner, though it bore a striking resemblance to him. Mrs. Goldschmidt having sworn positively that it was a photograph of her husband, the case was virtually ended. It was then found that on Thursday Mrs. Goldschmidt made a false statement to the justice, saying she received the photograph from her husband while she was in England, in a letter. Yesterday a cigar maker stated that he gave the photograph to her a few days ago and that he knew it was not one of the prisoner.

—Gen. Banks, we are sorry to say, led the House of Representatives, yesterday, into voting a gratuity of $5,000 to a young lady to whom the nation owed nothing. It is so easy for men of deficient moral sense to give away money which does not belong to them, and so hard for men of a certain age to resist the voice and eyes of a young woman, that it is useless to protest against these gallant follies. We cannot prevent the House from voting money to ladies whose graces they admire, but we beg in behalf of the public which pays, that this charity be coupled with the proviso that the recipient shall make no more dismal images to affront all persons of taste and culture who may visit the Capitol. Gen. Banks is not expected to know anything about Art, but he has constituents who do. We invite their attention to the performance of their representative.—New York Tribune.

—Our Pittsburgh neighbors have always had a knack of bringing the good things of the earth into their own bounds; whether it was coal, oil, or iron that was desirable, they promptly stretched out a railroad and put themselves en rapport with it. Within the last week or two, however, they have extended their lines of communication so as to include the other world. Daily advices from heaven are received as regularly as cable dispatches. The occasion of this phenomenon was a row which occurred lately at a place called Kelly's Station, between the Universalists and certain brethern of the Methodist persuasion. Party feeling ran high and hard words higher as to the number of the redeemed. The Universalists being in the majority and the Methodists but a feeble flock. Orthodoxy was about to suffer a signal defeat, when a fair convert, Miss Emeline Taylor, came to the rescue with an opportune fit. This attack or vision has lasted seven days, during which the seeress has eaten nothing being fully occupied in exploring Heaven as thoroughly as our Commission intends, we hope, to explore Santo Domingo. She appears to have left her powers of speech behind, as contrary to all parallel cases in which the vision was reported only when it was over, her tongue wags unceasingly, reporting familiar conversations in very bad grammar between herself and God the Father and Son. Of course, she finds only the limited number of saints allowed by orthodoxy, and not a single Universalist. On being questioned by physicians as to the digestive organs, she assures them that she is fed by miraculous milk and honey. The amazing part of this story is that physicians and clergymen stand breathless and wondering about her bed and Pittsburgh is awe-struck and believing.—The New York Tribune.

Home Again.—William Porter, esq., of Rochester, who, together with his daughter, have been spending the winter with a son and brother, residing near Culpepper Court House, Va., returned home last week in the enjoyment of their usual good health. Death of a Very Aged Person.—Mrs. "Betty" Brown, a very aged old lady, died in Brighton township, this county, on last Thursday, (Feb'y 23d.) She had been quite feeble for many years and when her end came she was little more than a mere shadow. She did not know her exact age herself, nor did any one else, we believe, in this vicinity; yet nearly all agree that she had passed her 100th year. In all probability therefore, she was the oldest known, at the time of her death, in this county.

FOR Dried Peaches and Apples go to S. Snitger & Co.'s, Third street, Beaver. They keep a choice article.

NOISELESS AND BOLTLESS—Read without fail Geer & Cady's advertisement in another column, and write them at Marshall, Michigan. jan11;1y.

It is beautifully situated, nearly adjoining the Borough of Beaver on the public road leading from Beaver to Vanport. "Polly's Dream."—The Radical of this place is just now publishing "Polly's Dream"—"written for the Beaver Radical." Here is what the Union Free Press of Kittanning, Pa., says about the originality of the story referred to:

A very entertaining and touching narrative is the "Journal of a Poor Vicar in Wiltshire," from the German, which was reproduced (not as original) in the Union Free Press of Jan'y 23, 30, and Feb'y 6, 1868. It is, we notice, being published in one of our exchanges, under the name of "Polly's Dream; Leaves from the Diary of the Vicar of Wiltshire," with some changes in phraseology and in the names of some of the characters. In this guise it purports to have been written for that particular paper. The plagiarism is too transparent not to be seen at a glance by those who have read the original.

SUGAR, of the best New Orleans Sugar for one dollar, at S. Snitger & Co.'s, Third street, Beaver.

Golden Fountain Pen.—Something new and novel. Be sure and read the advertisement in our paper headed "Greatest Invention of the Age." We believe the Golden Fountain Pen is unsurpassed. A good pen is a necessity to every man, woman and child. Agents here is a chance to make money in introducing a good and saleable article. ly.

Opening Letters.—In an opinion recently delivered at Erie, Pa., Judge McCandless laid it down as a law, that "a letter sealed by the humblest person in the land cannot be opened by any official through whose hands it passes, but must be held sacred; and not even the Postmaster General himself has the right to break the seal."

An Impudent Father.—A Chicago youth named Stackman, recently ordered his father to get up and build a fire; but the old man talked back, and the boy had to flog him before he would mind. Of late years fathers are growing more and more impudent. We wonder what will have to be done with them?

CLOSING out Winter Goods at cost, at A. S. Harvey's store, Bridgewater, Pa. feb 22;2w

Something of a Lead.—According to the annual statement of the Commissioners of Lawrence county, the indebtedness of that county is $257,405.91. How would the taxpayers of Beaver county like to toddle along under a load like that?

The Heaviest Hog Yet.—Mr. Henry Feicht, of Bridgewater, on last Thursday, slaughtered a hog, raised and fattened by himself, which weighed, when dressed, 593 pounds. The hog was of the Chester White species, and was nearly three years old, when butchered. This was the heaviest hog killed in the county this season of which we have any knowledge, but taking into consideration his age, there were others that excelled him in porcine capacity.

Executions in Pennsylvania.—Jacob P. Medary furnishes to the Reading Eagle a record of executions in this State from 1760 to 1871, showing that 112 persons have paid the penalty of their life. The list he gives as follows: Philadelphia city and county 26; Lancaster county 12; Berks 7; Dauphin 6; Chester 5; Allegheny, Bucks, Huntingdon, Lycoming and Wayne, each 4; Bedford, Delaware and Washington, each 3; Butler, Crawford, Luzerne, Northampton, Schuylkill and York, each 2; Adams, Blair, Centre, Cambria, Cumberland, Erie, Franklin, Lebanon, McKean, Montgomery, Monroe, Potter, Susquehanna, Westmoreland and Wyoming, each 1. His statement in regard to Allegheny county is entirely too small, as there have been eleven persons hung there since 1828. Mr. M. is also at fault in another county: Beaver county is not in his list, yet a man named Sheets was executed here a few years ago.

WE are not giving way to a feverish desire to flatter S. & J. Snellenberg, of New Brighton, that "thrift may follow" in the wake, when we say that they unquestionably turn off some of the best fitting suits of gentlemen's Clothing to be seen west of the Allegheny Mountains. They do that. They do so, not occasionally, but frequently—continuously—always. We never saw a bad fit from their extensive mercantile clothing house; and most of our fashionably dressed gentlemen patronize them exactly for this very reason. They employ none but the best workmen; have the choicest goods from which to select; their prices are not exorbitant; and they are courteous and attentive to customers. The leaders of fashion call at that establishment, and where they go, of course the majority will follow. This accounts for the large and increasing business of their Clothing House. Pittsburgh is contributing its custom to this establishment; which fully sustains the remark that "the man who advertises freely will always succeed." S. & J. Snellenburg are not afraid to "sling printer's ink." Pittsburghers would have been ignorant of the facilities of obtaining the assistance of these master workmen in fitting the outward man in comely habiliments had they not advertised liberally in the ARGUS.

A Bit of Town History.—On last Saturday evening a man residing in that portion of the city south of the College, visited some of the down town saloons and continued late in his debauch. Sunday morning he came home and shamefully abused his family, who fled to the neighbors. Our noble assistant Marshal used his endeavors, in a private way to quiet affairs; but the man would drink. On Sunday night he disappeared. Toward morning he was found in the reservoir—not drowned, but thoroughly soaked with water and insensible. He was taken home and revived, but could not tell how he came where he was found or how he got away: the next thing we hear, is the wife, that had been abused and turned out of doors, at the counter of one of our Drug Stores purchasing a "wee bit of Brandy for a poor sick man." Gentlemen, be careful how you sell brandy and the like except on prescription.—Alliance Monitor.

A FEW INDUBITABLE FACTS.—A treaty of peace has been signed by the high powers of Germany and France; and the winter wheat looks remarkably well in western Pennsylvania. Napoleon is still held as a prisoner at Wilhelmshohe; and good potatoes are very hard to got in Beaver. The Commissioners from Great Britain to settle the Alabama claims have arrived at New York; and buttter still commands 35 cents per pound in this vicinity. Washington was always looked upon as the very imbodiment of truth; and Simon Snitger & Co. have the freshest, cheapest and best lot of groceries to be found anywhere. The San Domingo Commissioners are busily engaged in trying to ascertain the annexation opinions of the people of that Island; and if any one doubts what we have said about S. Snitger & Co.'s groceries let him call at their old stand in Beaver and see for himself.

Rev. H. Webber, principal of the North Sewickley Academy, died on Friday the 24th inst., of apoplexy, at his residence in North Sewickley, Beaver county, Pa. While at worship, on the evening preceding his decease, he was stricken down, and in a few minutes he went into a comatose state in which he continued till he expired. He was buried on last Sabbath at 2 o'clock, p. m. Rev. R. C. Critchlow, Rev. Mr. Hervey, of the Baptist Church, and Rev. John H. Anghey, took part in the funeral services. Rev. H. Webber has been in the ministry about thirty years, nearly all of which was spent in western Pennsylvania. He leaves a widow, seven children and a large number of friends and relatives to mourn his loss.

EDITOR ARGUS:—I notice in your paper of the 25th of January, that a lucky hunter—Samuel Stewart of Fayette Co., —has, during the past fall and winter caught 51 raccoons and 140 opossums. Now, sir, if you will allow me to express an opinion, I will say that there were decidedly too many "smooth tails" in that lot to make the story a plausible one. Now, Mr. Editor, I have nothing much to brag about on the coon question this year; but will say when this Fayette hunter can boast (without regard to time) of catching 75 coons, without gobbling up a single opossum, he can beat the Col. Mr. John Shearer of Ohio township, last year caught over 50 raccoons, and no opossums. Enough of this. I must now tell you about a fox hunt we had two weeks ago. The hunt was gotten up by our good Steward of the Poor House, who by the way is a good hunter, and a mesmer in good standing of our Fur Co. We were up early in the morning, had an early breakfast, mounted our horses, and let loose eight of the long eared stock. Arriving near Daniel Short's (in Moon township, our party gave us some music which none but a hunter can appreciate. You may be sure it was not long until Mr. Fox was roused up, and away he went, the hounds closely after him. The music just now was exhilerating, and made us all feel young again. The fox made several circles, and was shot at frequently by members of the Fur Co.; but none hit him. After an exciting chase of about four hours, we rocked him, the whole company agreeing that it was the liveliest fox-chase they ever were a party to. COL. R. WALTON.

Politics in Beaver Co. Thirty-three Years Ago.—A friend has handed us a copy of the "WESTERN ARGUS," dated August 22d, 1838. This was the Ritner campaign year, and judging from the reports of meetings published in the copy of the paper here referred to, we take it that things were pretty lively in Beaver county at that time. It seems that sometime during the canvass a "Resumption Celebration" was held in Beaver, at which a great many toasts were read by the prominent men of the neighborhood. From these, as published in the ARGUS, we clip a few, to show the feeling entertained for "honest Joe" as he was then called:

TOASTS.

By Wm. B. Clark. Joseph Ritner—the whole hearted Pennsylvania Wagoner; with a full team he has fulfilled his first receipt without dockage. The people on the second Tuesday of October will furnish him a second bill of lading.

By Daniel Agnew. Joseph Ritner—he needs no certificate for honesty and industry, nor endorsers to give him credit.

By Isaac Jones. This day—an eventful day; one which the people will carry in remembrance to the polls on the 2d Tuesday of October, and give a long pull, a strong pull, and a pull altogether, for our present worthy and judicious Farmer Governor.

By F. C. Speyerer. Thomas Jefferson—his principles, not the property of one party, but of all true Americans.

By Wm. K. Boden. The National Executive—A hard bargain, they have oppressed us in every shape and form, let us try what we can do for them on the day which, it is hoped, will dispossess them of their power,

By J. Reynolds. Martin Van Buren and Joseph Ritner—the former with a servile Congress at his heels drove Specie from circulation—the latter with the people at his back will restore it.

By J. A. Frazier. Joseph Ritner the self made statesman who has risen from a wagoner to a farmer, from a farmer to Governor of the State of Pennsylvania, which office he has filled with dignity and honor, stands as will secure him a triumphant success in October next.

By J. S. Darragh. Pennsylvania—she will always prosper if she has a Joseph Ritner to equalize her currency.

By D. Warnock. Dickey and Stevens, Canal Commissioners of Pennsylvania—firm, fearless and independent patriots; an honor to the State and administration under which they act.

By a Dutchman:

"Der Joseph Ritner ish der man,
Der unsern Staat regieren kann."

By R. McCulloch. Joseph Ritner—a whole team.

By J. Eakin. The Whigs of Pennsylvania—may they teach the experimenters and their supporters a lesson on the second Tuesday of October next not soon to be forgotten.

By J. Bannon. May the wings of Liberty never want a feather.

By J. R. Clow. Joseph Ritner—he drives the team of state with a skilful and masterly hand. No foreign or domestic foe to our interests or independence will be permitted to pass with impunity by him. His bright ploughshare turns up and exposes the foul corruptions of the enemies of our free institutions.

It seems that editorial "whacks" were about as frequent and as pointed then as now. The Aurora, was then the organ of the opposite party, and in a day or two after the "Resumption Celebration" it alleged that "the great mass of the Resumption party on the 13th were pretty well fuddled and that the whole proceeding was disorderly and disreputable." Whereupon the editor of the ARGUS comes back on the Aurora man in this style: "Only think of the idea of a man who will take thirty-two horns at one bar, in one day, charging men who "touch not, taste hot, with intemperance! To say the least of it, is it not ridiculous?"

A Cheery Note.—We take the liberty of publishing the following note, received on last Saturday, through the mail:

In the Penitentiary Again.—Wash Gordon, well known in the criminal courts of this county, was recently convicted in Lawrence county of an assault and battery with intent to kill, and sentenced to the penitentiary for the period of eighteen months. He arrived at headquarters on last Friday one week ago.

Recovered.—Prof. R. T. Taylor of the Beaver Female Seminary, who was in ill-health some time ago, has so far recovered, as to be again attending to his ordinary duties. It affords us pleasure to see his genial face on our streets again.

Recollections of the Olden Time.—Sanford C. Hill—and who has not heard of and read his almanac—is just now writing up some of the incidents connected with the early settlement of East Liverpool, a short distance down the river. From one of his communications we clip the following:

Noah Grant, the grandfather of General Grant, was for ten or twelve years a resident of what is now Liverpool township (sec. 12, T. 5). Jesse Grant, the General's father, recently said that when about ten years of age, the first sermon he ever heard preached was by Robert Dobbins, in Fawcettstown, (Methodist) and that the family removed about 1808 or 1809. There is a man still living in the township, Michael McKinnon, who, on the 1st day of August, 1871, will be ninety years of age, who was well acquainted with Noah Grant, and had shoes made by him. The two brothers of Noah Grant's wife lived in the township for many years after the removal of the Grant family to Stalk county. I was well acquainted with them.

Often have I heard my mother tell, that while living on their Pennsylvania farm, one evening in May, about 1799, she went out into a field where my father and another man were planting corn, when they heard the report of two guns in quick succession. Says the man, "If your stomachs are as empty as your guns you are in need of your suppers." In a few minutes a man came running up, and told them that the Indians had just killed Mollie Calvin and her child, scalped the mother, and badly wounded her husband. That night all the neighbors left their houses and encamped at a certain house. The next morning Andrew Poe, and Adam, his brother, David Patton, and two others, armed themselves and pursued the Indians to the mouth of Tomlison's Run, now in Hancock county, W. Virginia, about three miles from Pughtown, where Andrew had that celebrated personal encounter with Big Foot and his comrade, the result of which is generally known. When a boy, I was well acquainted with Andrew Poe, and saw the scar on his hand made by the tomahawk of the little Indian.

While Gen. Wayne's command was forming to move against the Western Indians, Major Van Tramack's men encamped on the ground where East Liverpool now stands, and while waiting for supplies, they cut down a grove of chestnut trees, and six of green chestnuts until a number of them sickened and died, being the first ever buried within the limits of the Liverpool cemetery grounds. The place was marked by a pile of stones, and is visible to this day.

Beaver District Semi-annual Temperance Convention.

FREEDOM, Beaver Co., Feb 16th, 1871.

EDITOR ARGUS:—The members of the Beaver District Semi-annual Temperance Convention, met at 9 o'clock, a. m., in Freedom, in the M. E. Church, pursuant to arrangements made at last Convention held at Industry. The Convention was called to order by W. C. T., Bro. A. J. Welsh, of Darlington, who made the following appointments: P. W. C. T., Bro. Banks, of Mound Valley Lodge, W. Chap., Bro. J. Alexander, of New Brighton; W. M., Bro. Funkhouser, of New Brighton, W. Sec., Bro. Wilson.

Bro's. Jones, of Beaver Falls, Elder, of Darlington, and Clabaugh, of Homewood, were appointed a committee on credentials; and Bro's. Bestwick, of New Brighton, Black, of Rochester, and Todd, of Industry, a committee on resolutions. The following reports were received from the various lodges of the county: Bro. Beisel responded to the call of Enola Lodge in very favorable terms. They boasted of being the oldest lodge in the county, and at present were in a good working condition. Bro. Anderson responded in behalf of Amaranth Lodge. New Brighton Lodge being called, Bro. Alexander said: With pleasure, he was here to represent that Lodge, it being at present in a good working condition, always on the increase, now numbering 212 members. They had in circulation a petition for a prohibitory law, which at present was speaking in flattering terms of itself. They also had in contemplation the institution of a new lodge.

Mound Valley Lodge was responded to by Bro. Banks, of Beaver Falls, who spoke of a petition being in circulation for a prohibitory law, and that present indications spoke very favorably of the Temperance cause.

Darlington was responded to by Bro. Elder, who stated that they had but one initiation during last quarter, but the prospects in the future were more favorable. Bro. Pennet Coomb, having with his lectures awakened the people to a sense of their duty—particularly church members.

Industry Lodge was responded to by Bro. F. T. Todd, who stated that their success had not really been what was hoped for, but the coming quarter promised a revival in their midst.

Beaver Valley Lodge was responded to by Brother Cobaugh, of Homewood, who said they had prevented applicants from obtaining license, and would use their best efforts in the future to prevent it again, as he understood application has or was about to be made for license.

Glasgow Lodge was responded to by Brother Wallower, who said they had suspended twenty-five members, expelled two and initiated seven last quarter, but still were working with a good interest on the part of the remaining members.

Freedom Lodge was responded to by Brother Cooper, who spoke in very flattering terms of their success.

Brother Bestwick then offered a motion, which was agreed to, to instruct the Secretary of the Convention to procure two hundred conventional ode cards, and that a warrant be drawn upon the treasurer for the amount of $2,00 to procure the same.

On motion adjourned to meet at 1½ o'clock, p. m.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

The Convention was called to order at 1½ o'clock, p. m., W. C. T., A. J. Welsh in the chair.

On motion of Brother Wilson, the vacancies of the Representatives were filled up by the visiting members of the respective lodges. The Executive Committee then submitted the following report:

That in our official capacity we have visited nearly every lodge in the District during last quarter, and find, with but one or two exceptions, all earnest and active laboring for the advancement of the work; we, therefore, then submit the following recommendations for your consideration:

1st. That lodges be urged to active, fraternal and social feeling to a greater extent amongst each other, and especially with visitors. 2d. That more attention be given by Lodges to outside work, or work among those who do not come in and help us. 3d. That Lodges be urged to cultivate and utilize the musical talents in their Lodges. 4th. That Lodges consult and advise with their member of this committee, that they may be enabled to perfect plans for the prosecution of the work more vigorously during the present year. 5th. The members of the different Lodges, who have any wishes to present to the District Convention, should hand it to their member of this committee previous to conventions.

The Committee on Resolutions then submitted the following:

Resolved, That we, as a Convention, do heartily concur and believe that the passage of the Local Option Liquor bill, (now pending before the House of Representatives of this State,) would advance the cause of Temperance and harmony of society. Laid over.

Resolved, That the representatives of each Lodge use their influence to procure petitions for the passage of such an act. Laid over.

Resolved, That we firmly believe that the Temperance cause will never succeed without the aid of woman, and that this is specially woman's work, and that we recommend the right of woman to the ballot as a means to that end. Passed.

Resolved, That the Temperance cause is a great aid to the church, and as such should receive its earnest encouragement and support. Passed.

WHEREAS, We are convinced that the only remedy for the terrible crime of Intemperance is to be found in political and legislative action; and, whereas, we believe that the order of Good Templars in our county, can, at any election for county officers rally around the temperance standard voters enough to constitute a "balance of power" that will elect the candidate in whose favor they may cast their ballots; therefore,

Resolved, That for the interest of the cause of Temperance we pledge ourselves to vote for no man who is not, now or at anytime and in any place to raise the temperance flag and hold the staff in his own hands. Passed.

Resolved, That we will support no person for any office of profit or trust who is not a known temperance man, and who will not do all in his power to advance the cause of Temperance in his official capacity. Passed.

Resolved, That the Good Templar's obligation is as binding out of the lodge-room as in it, and is our duty to practice in our lives what we teach in our lodges. Passed.

Resolved, That the District Deputy shall call, at least once in a quarter, a meeting of the adjacent Lodges in the district, and Lodges at which such meetings shall be held, shall dispense with all loathness as far as may be practical, and the exercises consist of discussions, addresses, music, &c., for the social intercourse of the members. Passed.

Resolved, That the thanks of this Convention be tendered, and are hereby tendered to the members of Freedom Lodge, No. 822, for their kind and generous hospitality, and to the Trustees of the M. E. Church for the use of their house for our meetings. Passed.

Resolved, That a copy of the proceedings and resolutions of this Convention be forwarded to each of the Beaver papers and the Keystone Good Templar for publication. Passed.

On motion of Brother Bestwick, the Convention proceeded to election of officers for the next Convention; where upon Brother Barkley, of New Brighton, was elected W. C. T.; Sister Hardy, of Darlington, W. V. T.; and Brother Stevenson, of Beaver Falls, W. S.

On motion of Brother Banks, Beaver Falls was selected as the place of next meeting.

Among the visitors, and those who took part in the exercises, we noticed Sister Goff, of Philadelphia.

On motion adjourned to meet in Beaver Falls the 3d Friday of August next.
J. S. BRIGGS, Sec'y.

☞ The fifth lecture of the course, under the auspices of the Young Men's Christian Association of Beaver, will be delivered in the M. E. Church, on next Friday evening, by Miss Hindman of Pittsburgh. The Pittsburgh papers speak highly of this lady as a lecturer, and we trust she will be honored with a good audience on the evening referred to. Subject: "The Women of the Republic."

Penn'a. Legislature.

SENATE, Feb. 21.—A great many petitions for the local option liquor law were presented. The private calendar, embracing fifteen bills, was considered. The bill regulating the fees of Lord and Mason's alley, in Beaver town. Passed.

HOUSE.—The House was not in session—not having got over their 22d February spree.

SENATE, Feb. 24.—The resolution requesting the Attorney General to furnish the Senate with an opinion in regard to the power of railroad incorporators to charge excessive rates of toll on coal tonnage, was adopted under a suspension of the rules. Among the host of private bills which were considered and passed, was one to extend the Juniata county Act, relating to appeals and transcripts from judgment of Justices of the Peace, to Beaver county. The special committee on Public Printing will report on Monday, by which time the Senate will adjourn.

HOUSE.—The House was not in session.

The Butler Eagle congratulates itself upon the issue of its first volume, with its steady increase of circulation—having eight hundred subscribers—its advertising patronage and its job work; alleging that it has cleared all expenses the first year. The Eagle charges two per—same size of the ARGUS—at one dollar per year. Here is a case of merit a great error, and injure the cause of publishing county newspapers. The ARGUS is published by a Joint Stock Company, who do not expect to realize a livelihood from the proceeds of the printing office, but merely to use its columns to further the political interests of its stock-holders. All newspapers established for such a purpose, and conducted solely for that end, will eventually fail; and they greatly injure those established for legitimate purposes. Perhaps the Eagle is worth but $1.00 per annum, and the publishers being aware of the fact, offer it at that price. The publisher had better take a good paper and pay $2.00.

Another Sudden Death.—On last Thursday morning, Mr. Samuel Ramsey, a quiet, worthy citizen of Beaver, died very suddenly of heart disease. He had been complaining for a few days previous of feeling unwell, but nothing serious was apprehended by himself or family. On the morning of his death with the rest of his household, he sat down to breakfast and after partaking of some food and a cup of coffee, he laid down on the bed and in a few moments breathed his last. His age was about sixty-four years. He leaves a wife and several children to mourn his sudden death.

A Narrow Escape.—A train left past one o'clock, on the morning of the 24th inst., a German traveling under the name of Christian Heurich, of Erie, who was traveling on the train of the Pt. W. & C. R. R., fell off the iron bridge at Beaver Station in Rochester, a height of some twenty feet down upon the bridge road, breaking his right leg just above the knee joint, the bone protruding out through the flesh some two inches; frightfully lacerating and bruising his face, head and parts of his body. Dr. Winans and Rose set his leg and attended the case. The patient is doing as well as could be expected.

Singular.—It is a singular but not less true remark, in a late work, that Jefferson was born just eight years before the presidential Adams; Madison eight years after Jefferson; Monroe eight years after Madison; and John Quincy Adams eight years after Monroe. Another curious fact to be observed, is that Adams was sixty-six years old when he retired; Jefferson was sixty-six; Madison was sixty-six; Monroe was sixty-six; and John Quincy Adams, had he been elected for a second term, would have been sixty-six. Adams, Jefferson and Madison all died on the 4th of July.

The Covode Estate.—Letters of administration have been granted by the register of this county upon the estate of John Covode, de ceased, to his widow, Mrs. Margaret A. Covode, John Scott and J. M. Reed. They filed a bond in $400,000, with Uri Updegraff and David A. Stewart as the sureties. The personal property is estimated at $200,000, but from this is to be deducted all debts and liabilities. Mr. Covode was assessed with 676 acres of land, one lot and a half in Lockport, the station house and warehouse at Lockport, the woolen factory, saw mill, and five tenant houses, the whole valued at $5,442 for taxable purposes. The story going the rounds of the newspapers, that he was worth between $1,000,000 and $1,500,000, was a canard.—Greensburg Republican and Democrat, Feb. 17.

Congressional Contest.—On Friday last, testimony was taken in Gettysburg in the Myers-Cessna contested election case. Mr. Myers attended in person, while Mr Cessna was represented by an attorney. A large amount of testimony was taken, but with little relet ancy to the issue. Some half dozen votes were shown to have been irregularly cast for Cessna, including four colored votes from the Poor House. The Star says: "We learn that it is the impression of informed persons that the testimony taken in the different counties of the district, makes out a clear case for Mr Cessna, and that there can be little or no doubt of his securing his seat."

STANDARD PRINCIPLES.—There should be standard principles in medicine as well as philosophy.

Without a "zero" to start from, or a "standard" from which to calculate the deviations, the principle and practice of medicine, in fact the principles of any art or science, cannot be satisfactorily elucidated or properly understood.

The art and science of medicine is divided into several special departments, each having their standard principles which form the basis for their scientific elucidations.

Every particular part of the human body has had its average natural properties, constituents, quantities, &c., reduced upon scientific principles to a standard of nearly definite proportions in health.

This serves for the more correct elucidation of disease by comparison and measurement of the deviations from the healthy standard. Thus the average proportionate constituents of the blood in health being reduced to a standard, any considerable deviation from this standard quality of the blood is disease.

The same in the urinary excretion; the average natural proportionate constituents of the urine in health form the standard, any considerable deviation from which, is either in proportion or constituents, exhibits disease.

This latter is a practical fact which we are daily demonstrating at our office, No. 132 Grant street, at which any one can have tested for their entire satisfaction by sending a stadiard specimen (morning's urine) for scientific analysis and examination.

If we fail to detect the "morbid conditions," of any; or to determine the nature of the disease, or the organs affected, as the lungs, liver, stomach, kidneys, womb, &c., there shall be no charge made.

Be sure to give the age of the patient at the same time, as the urine varies in proportionate constituents in the different ages of infancy, childhood, manhood, and old age.

The name and residence of each patient should be given also, in order to avoid confusion of cases where medicines are taken. DRS. OLDSHUE.

LOOK HERE! S. Snitger & Co. have just received a large stock of choice Groceries which they offer for sale as low as they can be bought in Pittsburgh.

Mysterious Disappearance.—Henry Miller, residing in Smith township, about three and a half miles northeast of this place, left his home last Thursday morning about 10 o'clock without ceremony, dressed in his old working clothes, and has not since been heard of. His absence has been a source of anxiety to his wife and children. Any information concerning his whereabouts will be gratefully received. He is a man of about fifty years of age, whiskers and hair mixed with gray, and is dull of hearing. Address information to Mrs. Harvey Miller, Alliance, Ohio. Neighborhood papers please copy.—Alliance Monitor.

Sale Bills.—Sales of personal and real property are now taking place in one or another part of the county almost every day. If you want handsome and attractive sale bills get them printed at the ARGUS Job Office. Our business arrangements are such that we can almost always do a lot of bills immediately after receiving the order. Persons coming to town from the country, as a general thing, will only have to wait an hour or two, in order to get their bills home with them. And in order to insure a large attendance and a successful sale advertise what you have to dispose of in the ARGUS. It circulates and is read more extensively than any other paper in the county.

☞ New and Valuable Seeds Given Away.—We have received from N. P. Boyer & Co., of Parkesburg, Chester Co., Pa., samples of Imported Norway Oats, Alsike Clover and Chester county Mammoth Corn; they generously offer to send sample packages free to all farmers who send stamps to pay postage. Measrs. N. P. Boyer & Co., are the largest importers of Thoroughbred Stock and Choice Seeds in the United States, and as there is so much bogus Norway Oats and other seeds being sold, they wish to give every farmer in the country a chance to test their Genuine Seeds, free of charge. We hope all our farmer friends will avail themselves of this generous offer.

Tit for Tat.—In New Lisbon, Ohio, a few weeks ago, a whisky guzzler sued a saloon keeper for selling him whisky, and had him fined $5,75. The saloon keeper then turned around and sued the guzzler for getting drunk on his liquor, and put it up on him to the tune of $21,00. It costs more in that town to get drunk than it does to make drunk.

DIVORCES.—Absolute Divorces legally obtained in New York, Indiana, Illinois, and other States, for persons from any State or country, non-support, etc., sufficient cause; no publicity. No charge until divorce is obtained. Advice free. Address, MOORE & RICHARDSON, Counsellors at Law, jan4;4y] 180 BROADWAY, New York City.

DIED.

RAMSEY.—On the 23d of February, 1871, Mr. Samuel Ramsey, of Beaver.

TWENTY YEARS OF CRIME.

A History of the Exploits of Louis Van Eeten—The Wall Street Forger's Career as a Merchant, Banker Broker and Bond Thief—His Arrest and the Trouble Attending It—A Curious History.

Louis M. Van Eeten, who was arrested at New Orleans a few weeks ago and brought to this city by Detective Simpson, says the New York Sun, is now at the Tombs awaiting sentence for his many crimes, the latest of which (in this city, at least,) was perpetrated on Wells, Fargo & Co. in October last, to the tune of $77,500. The following is a succinct biography of this accomplished criminal.

Lewis M. Van Eeten twenty years ago, left his native city, Antwerp, to seek his fortunes in the Western World. His father, a respectable ship broker, had carefully educated him in the mysteries of book-keeping and commerce. He spoke French German and English with rare fluency, and to a good looking exterior, always carefully dressed, added a pleasing address. He was about twenty-five years of age. He began his new career by purchasing on time —long time—$50,000 worth of goods which he shipped to New York. He immediately followed with the bill of lading in his pocket. A respectable German firm, Myers & Stekeman advanced him $40,000 on the bills. With this sum he looked about for position, and with his happy manners soon ingratiated himself in the confidence of a young lady of a highly respectable family, well known in this city, to whom he was Shortly Afterward Married.

His brief tour extended through Europe, under an assumed name, avoiding Antwerp for abundant reasons and seeking more congenial capitals. Returning in 1853, the glitter of stock speculation attracted his attention, and for a while he endeavored to capture the untamed bulls and bears of Wall street. This was not successful. Van Eeten then opened an office in Bowling Green under many signs, &., with the ostensible view of doing a large foreign shipping and commission business. At once he opened correspondence, without a ship in port or a dollar in his pocket, with leading houses in Liverpool, London, and Bremen, advising them of the shipment of goods, giving names of vessels, invoices, &c., and asking for remittances on account. These shipments of course were fictitious. One house only, a Liverpool concern, responded, and sent forward through Duncan, Sherman, & Co.,

Five Hundred Pounds.

An arrest for this display of his financiering art followed, which he contrived to compromise by a small payment.

We next hear of him opening a bank in Jersey, styled "the Marine Bank of Hoboken," whose capital consisted of elegant fixtures and furniture, and a big safe all bought on credit. The deposits reached only four hundred dollars. Confidence, as Burke says, is a plant of slow growth.

A second arrest followed, and a prison loomed up in the distance, but fortunately for our hero, the late General Wright, of New Jersey, by his legal art, rescued him from this untimely end.

About this time, Van Eeten purchased a fine house on West Twenty-Second street, with furniture, &c., on credit, and here, in luxury, alas! for his baker, coal and grocery man, he passed with his family his idle hours.

In 1857 his name appeared over fine rooms at 10 William street, as a general stock broker. His imposing manner, his stylish offices and elaborate ledgers brought him

Wealthy Customers.

From whom he extracted, in margin and profits, some $50,000. He would receive their orders for the purchase and sale of stocks, go out, and return reporting the names of the best houses in the street as purchasers or sellers, enter these fictitious transactions in his books, and go home to his luxurious ease, leaving his customers to count up their fancied gains and losses.

To illustrate: One Mr. Curtis gave him $10,000 as a margin on purchase of Reading stock, and thinking after a few weeks, from the reports, that he had captured a profit of some thousands, invited Van Eeten to a settlement. To the astonishment of the dismayed Curtis there had been no purchase and no funds, and not even the original $10,000 was in hand. This led to a denouement, an arrest and an imprisonment of eighteen months.

In Ludlow Street Jail.

Prior to this arrest by Curtis, Van Eeten had himself been arrested by one Thompson, on an imaginary indebtedness of some thousands. The case acquired some notoriety in its day, from the connection of Messrs. Fisk and Fullerton, distinguished counsel, who, on finding that the motion to discharge from imprisonment was only a cover to shield Van Eeten from the real fraud, indignantly threw up the case in open court and left him to his fate. This enforced solitude was inconvenient, but not without distraction" and relief.

The finest of wines, cigars and other table luxuries, enabled him to entertain his soft-hearted jailors, and to give some consolation to his wounded spirit.

Prior to his confinement he purchased on time a new house in the more aristocratic neighborhood of West Forty-sixth street, near Fifth avenue, and set up carriages and horses. The Wall street profits also enabled him to throw the charm of his presence over Lake Mahopac in the summer of 1867, where he reigned during one season as the leader of fashionable society. His Forty-sixth street house was sold for five thousand dollars over the cost, and thereafter and up to his arrest he resided in another house purchased on time, as usual, in West Thirtieth street, always keeping up his carriages, and living the style becoming so distinguished a financier.

This brings us down to his later enterprise. Having in his possession a small check of Fisk & Hatch, Wall street brokers, on the Fourth National Bank, he ingeniously raised it to $7,500; but, though his coolness was manifested in a high degree, the fraud was detected. He was arrested and Tried for Forgery.

The case was plain. The Court charged the jury strongly against Van Eeten, and Justice held aloft her impartial scales. But his good fortune again saved him. Two jurymen could not agree—their consciences forbade—and Van Eeten went back to the Tombs. Bail was accepted in $1,000, and he walked for new enterprises upon a credulous world. If ever a man believed the world was an oyster to be opened by him in particular, it was our hero.

His last disaster, far from intimidating him, served rather to nerve him to a more lofty, and if successful, a more profitable exploit. Early in October, 1870, he in some way became possessed of a $1,000 5-20 bond. This he sold to Hallgarten & Co., the bankers, and received their check on the Park Bank. Working with all his accustomed adroitness, he altered his check to $77,500, forged the signature of the teller of the Park National Bank to certification, and once more entered the financial arena, prepared to make a bold stroke for fortune. On the 15th of October he purchased of Wells, Fargo & Co. $100,000 in Kansas bonds, for which he paid 77½, making the exact amount of his altered check, viz: $77,500. Receiving the bonds, he instantly deposited them with the Commercial Warehouse Company of 22 Broadway, as security for a loan of $50,000. He received two checks on different banks, but in spite of his rapid way of doing business, he failed to get the checks cashed on the day of the sale, and was forced to wait until the next day, October 14. He left the checks with Caldwell & Co., of Wall street, with orders to purchase some bonds. Afterward he called for the bonds and odd change (about $17,500, but as he could not be identified by a person sufficiently well known to the firm, he was sent away unsatisfied. He went in search of the President of the Commercial Warehouse Company, but could not find him. A pauy, but could not find him. A broker, giving the name of George W. Chadwick, called with him at Caldwell & Co.'s, and identified him, but that was of avail, since the firm had but little knowledge of Chadwick himself. Events have since proved that Chadwick is probably one of Van Eeten's accomplices. On the 18th of October the alteration was discovered, and Van Eeten warned of his danger, had departed in hot haste.

Throughout this transaction Van Eeten operated under the alias of J. R. Livingston, and his "get up" was almost clerical in its prim neatness and simplicity. Indeed, he was mistaken on the street for a retired minister.

A Retreat to San Francisco.

Foiled in this grand scheme, Van Eeten took his flight to San Francisco. He was too prudent a general to advance to the front, leaving his rear exposed. So, before commencing the Wells-Fargo campaign, he had made all his plans for escape.

A Woman in the Case.

Some time in August a Mrs. Werner, a beautiful brunette, obtained a divorce from her husband, and linked her fortune with Van Eeten. She was on very intimate terms with Mr. Converse, a business man of Pine street, and represented to him that having obtained a divorce, and married a wealthy gentleman, by name Col. Augustus C. Van Tassell, she was anxious to go with him to California. What she wanted was the proper introduction to "solid" people out there. Mr. Converse gladly wrote, at her request, a letter to Messrs. Wakely & Peel, San Francisco, introducing Col. Van Tassell as a man of large cash means which he was anxious to invest in real estate.

When the time for retreat came, Van Eeten quickly dropped the old name, assumed the new one—Van Tassell—and he and Mrs. Werner wended their way to San Francisco. To this city they were kindly welcomed by Mr. Wakely who introduced Van Eeten (Van Tassell then) to the bank of California. Here the Colonel deposited a Government Bond for $10,000.

Returning with Mr. Wakely to the office of the latter he negotiated for the purchase of a piece of property for $8,000, and at the bank obtained $9,700 as an advance on the bond which had been stolen and altered. That day the Colonel and his lady sailed for Acapulco. From this point he made his way, still accompanied by the faithful brunette, to New Orleans, where he was arrested on the 15th of January. On the 18th of January Detective Sampson of this city reached New Orleans, and procured a requisition from Governor Warmoth of Louisiana for the body of Van Eeten. On the way from New Orleans to this city Sampson had the hardest time on record to avoid the service of writs of habeas corpus. As he left the Court House in New Orleans a writ was served on him, but he ignored it, and evaded the deputy by driving out into the country, where he took refuge in the house of a gentleman. When the road was clear he walked to the river, took the police boat for eighteen miles, landed again, and finally got on board a railway train bound north. Hardly had he seated himself, when a deputy, accompanied by a huge assistant with a club, approached Sampson and his captive and served another writ. The deputy and his man became pressing in their attentions, and insisted upon having Van Eeten delivered to them. Sampson had to resort to the only system of logic he ever studied. Drawing his revolver, he said:

"Here are six good reasons why you should sit down and leave me alone." The deputy and his man appreciated the delicacy of the argument, and subsided. After numerous adventures, Sampson safely lodged his man at the Tombs in this city on the 23d of January.

Van Eeten's guilt is so clear that, with his usual sagacity, he has plead guilty, and will soon receive the sentence that hides him from the world for many years.

Society will then be relieved of a most dangerous man. His ability to counterfeit, and the boldness and address with which his schemes have been carried on for twenty years, leave as little to mourn over the conclusion of so abandoned a career.

Arrest of an Alleged Accomplice.

On Thursday night George W. Chadwick, who is mentioned in the foregoing story as Van Eeten's broker, was arrested and lodged in the Tombs. The specific charge against him, on which the Grand Jury found an indictment is complicity in the Wells-Fargo forgery case.

Chadwick, it is said, is also awaiting trial upon a charge of having passed one of the $10,000 United States bonds, stolen from Senor Castillo, of the Cuban Special Mission. Chadwick has had a real estate office at 245 Broadway, and has been under the surveillance of Detective Sampson for a long time. The evidence against him is regarded as conclusive, both from the confessions of Van Eeten and otherwise. The arrest of Chadwick has been managed with much secrecy so as not to give the alarm to other criminals.

[From the New York Herald.]

What the Democrats Will Do.

Nor do we think that the Republicans will be gratified in their expectation of the Democratic stupidity again in 1872—another revival of their fight against the Fifteenth and Fourteenth Amendments of the Constitution. They will, in their National Convention accept the situation as Tammany has accepted it; they will pick out as their candidates men whose antecedents in the war are not of the Vallandigham school, and they will order their battle upon the financial shortcomings of Grant's administration, including its high taxes, with their oppressive discriminations against the masses of the people. For President, Governor Hoffman has been wisely withdrawn by Tammany. He is an able, capable and popular man; but his time has not yet come. Hendricks, Pendleton and General Hancock are now most prominently in the foreground of the party; but of the old set of 1868 Hancock appears to us the only available piece of timber. Remembering, however, Polk in 1844, and Pierce in 1852, and that both were successful from their very obscurity, we may have the same convenient democratic game repeated in 1872. And why not? If the obscurity of Polk was too much for our greatest statesman, Henry Clay, and if the obscurity of Pierce was too much for our greatest soldier of his time, General Scott, why may not the unknown Smith or Jones be too much for General Grant on the new political issues of the day?

RICH AND POOR.

A Penniless Beauty in Cincinnati Captivates a Wealthy Pittsburgher.

Some of the Cincinnatti reporters have been weaving a pretty romance about a wealthy merchant of this city a widower, who recently became enamored of a dowerless belle in Cincinnatti, and who, finding he could not induce her to accept his attentions save in the capacity of an honorable suitor for her hand, determined to lead her to the altar, despite the protestations of those who reminded him of his social superiority, and the degradation he will bring upon his family connections by forming an alliance with one so far below his station. The girl, although poor, has completely fascinated her lover, and is not unwilling to share his fortunes as his wife. The story winds up as follows: "The wedding day has been appointed and after the ceremonies at the altar have been performed he will make the tour of Europe with his penniless but pretty bride. We don't believe that the old adage "there's many a slip between the cup and the lip," will be realized in this case; at least, we hope not; for the girl, though poor, is doubtless worthy to take upon herself the name and share the fortune of her worthy adorer."

Rules for Winter.

Exposure to inordinate cold, especially if the body be not properly clad is almost sure to induce some disease of the pulmonary organs. It may be in the throat, the bronchia, the larynx trachia, or lungs; all organs of vital importance to human health and the prolongation of life. Too serious, indeed, are such assaults to be treated with levity. The remedy, par excellence, that will remove them, one or all, in half a day, is Dr. Keyser's Pectoral Cough Syrup—sure and certain, no delay, no sickness, no waste of time, nor relinquishing of business; it goes right to the spot, and at once removes the obstruction, and opens the outlets which nature designed should be instrumental in preserving and carrying on the functions of life and health. There is no doubt of it: Dr. Keyser's Pectoral Syrup will do this, and always has done it. The truth is, it has gained such a widespread reputation, that it is known in every house, and known as a faithful guardian and preserver of the vital organs employed in respiration. When all other remedies fail, try one bottle of Dr. Keyser's Pectoral Syrup; and if you wish to save delay, try it at once; and you will thank the newspaper that informed you of its value, as well as the doctor who invented it. It may be had at drug stores for seventy-five cents, or at the Doctor's great medicine store, and office for lung diseases, 167 Liberty street, Pittsburgh, Pa.

CONUNDRUMS.

—Why will next year be like last? Because last year was 1870, and next year will be 1872 (too.)

—What reason have we to suppose that beer was made in the ark? The kangaroo was seen to go with hops, and the bear was always bruin.

—When is a fish-pond like a bird cage? When there is a perch in it.

—Why is the tongue like a race-horse? Because the less weight it carries the faster it runs.

—Why is the world like a piano? Because it is full of sharps and flats.

—Why is law like a sieve? Because, although you can see through it, you must be greatly reduced before you can get through it.

—Why is an elopement like an accident? Because it's a miss-adventure.

"Why am intoxication like a washbowl?" asked Sambo. "Case it am de-basin."

—Why is the letter G. like death? It makes ghosts of hosts, and is always in the midst of slaughter.

Late Hours.

Late hours are carrying more people to untimely graves than the deadly missiles of warfare. The bullet and the crashing shell mangle limbs and inflict flesh wounds, but midnight dissipation impairs the whole system, and hurries all ages and sexes under the sod. This growing tendency to turn night into days is one of the most serious of our social evils and should receive the earnest consideration of those interested in the welfare of the human race. By looking back at the newspapers of that time, it will be found that New Yorkers, at the beginning of this century, departed from places of amusement not far from the time at which they, now enter them. The doors of the theatre opened at half-past five o'clock and the curtain rose at half-past six." The early knickerbockers attended parties and other social gatherings at seven, and returned home between nine and ten o'clock.

Now all this is changed, and "between nine and ten" is the fashionable hour for going out. And what is true of grown people is rapidly becoming true of juveniles. Youngsters in roundabouts and misses in short dresses are arranging their finery long after the hour when children of the last generation were tucked away in trundle-beds. Little ones—scarce loosened from their mother's apron-strings—are dispatched in carriages to "children's parties," from half-past eight until half-past nine, and brought home at midnight or later. "Don't have the carriage yet," said a little miss in our hearing a few evenings since; "no one else will be there until half-past nine;" and with that she gave a toss of her head, as much as to say that she was not going to keep any less fashionable hours than her mamma.

There is certainly no occasion to go beyond this condition of affairs for an explanation of the physical deterioration of both sexes. How very few robust men and women are to be found now-a-days. Can we not each count on our fingers' ends all the friends and acquaintances who are free from bodily ailments and enjoy good health? We comment upon the fact that young men become bald and prematurely grow old; that young ladies are almost invariably complaining of pain in the head or side, have a pale weary look, and rarely exhibit those ruddy countenances which are so common among their English sisters. But does it occur to parents that they are to a great extent responsible for this; that they are mainly to blame that fashionable revelry and dissipation are now protracted far into the night, robbing old and young alike of health, if they in throwing open their houses to company will that the guests shall retire at a seasonable hour, the guests will do so.

The prevailing fashion cannot be perpetuated without the consent of the "heads of the establishments." However late the "young folks" may desire to protract their festivities, they must conform to the requirements of the "old folks," the householders. We say, then, it is not the young, the youthful pleasure seekers who are responsible for the late hour folly so much as the parents, who have it in their power to stop it. So far as children are concerned, parents do them a great wrong in either encouraging or permitting an indulgence in late hour festivities and entertainments. If they will not conform themselves to the laws of health the least they can do is to prevent their children from adopting their own ruinous practices. "Early to bed and early to rise" is a maxim which cannot be too strictly observed by both old and young.—Hearth and Home.

—The sugar-beetle, a minute insect sometimes found in sugar, is supposed to cause the irritation of the skin, more particularly of the hands, from which grocers and others who handle sugar are said to suffer. When present, they can be detected with an ordinary magnifying glass, by putting a teaspoonful or two of sugar in a glass of lukewarm water, and letting it stand until the sugar is entirely dissolved. The beetles will be found some floating on the water, and some in the sediment beneath.

—Mr. Varley, the electrician, recently stated in a paper read before the Royal Society, that he had been informed more than once by captains of vessels that when men have been struck by lightning a burn has been left upon the skin of the same form as the object from which the electric discharge came. In one instance he was told that some brass numbers fastened to the rigging from which the discharge passed to the sailor were imprinted on his skin. And Mr. Varley said that this was perfectly possible under certain electrical conditions.
